DIPLOMAS PRESENTED TO BAY HIGH SENIORS AT SCHOOL TUESDAY

Seventeen Graduate—Grammar Grades Receive Certificates—District Attorney "Bill" Colmer Delivers Address to Class—Many Attend.

A large and representative gathering of residents and visitors assembled at the auditorium of Bay High and Central Schools Tuesday evening to witness the graduation exercises of Bay Hi and presentation of certificates to members of the grammar grade class finishing.

Seventeen graduates is an unusually large class which added interest to the occasion. City Supt. of Education S. J. Ingram formally presented the diplomas to the graduates and certificates to the grammar class members.

Rev. Father A. J. Gmelch, pastor of the church of Our Lady of the Gulf, gave the invocation and the benediction was given by Rev. C. C. Clark pastor First Methodist Church of Bay St. Louis.

District Attorney Wm. M. Colmer, of Pascagoula, delivered the address to the graduates, a timely and beautiful effort well attested to by the applause that followed in approval.

Miss Ruth Marshall Ballard and Miss Pauline Abbe Russ divided the highest honors for the best averages in four years of work. Miss Ballard, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ballard, of this city, delivered the valedictory and also won the Newcomb College scholarship. Miss Russ was salutatorian.

Miss Arizona Taconi read the class will.

Miss Ballard won the Interstate Bank medal for the best composition on a chosen subject, an annual award from this New Orleans bank. Only members of the senior class are eligible to compete for this medal.

Medals, donated by the N. O. Times-Picayune, were won by Warren Baxter, Earl Raymond, Stella Turcotte.

A feature of the evening's program was a vocal trio, by Misses Irene Moore and Grace Hill and Mr. Warren Larroux.

Among those seated on the stage during the exercises of the evening were Mayor Charles Traub, Bro. Peter, president St. Stanislaus College; Wm. M. Colmer, Rev. C. C. Clark, Rev. A. J. Gmelch, City Supt. S. J. Ingram, Mrs. Opal Barringer, sponsor for the class, and members of the School Board including Chas. J. Mitchell, Dr. Jas. A. Evans, Mrs. C. C. McDonald, M. Luther Ansley, S. L. Touget.

Names of graduates follow: Ruth Ballard, valedictorian; Pauline Russ, salutatorian; Warren Larroux, class president; Lelia Collier, class secretary and treasurer; Carl Cowand, Arizona Taconi, Vanda Leigh Touget, Clifton Erwin, Reginald Moran, Irene Moore, Valmae Manieri, Marjorie Bordages, Edna Turcotte, Myrtle Rhodes, Alden Collier, Victorine Ziegler, Grace Hill, all of Bay St. Louis.

The term ended has been one of the more successful in the history of the school. Supt. S. J. Ingram and corps of teachers have been not only diligent but unceasing in their effort and have worked and co-operated in that manner that has won satisfaction to all concerned. It has been a busy session and results highly commensurate.

STATE CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN BAY SAINT LOUIS CITY NEXT YEAR

A. G. Favre of This City Elected State Deputy—G. O. Korndorfer Honored By Re-Election State Treasurer—Session Ends at Vicksburg.

The Mississippi State Knights of Columbus' convention came to a close at Vicksburg Monday afternoon with the election of officers and the selection of Bay St. Louis as their 1932 meeting place.

The following officers were elected: A. G. Favre, Bay St. Louis, state deputy; John Cabibi, Gulfport, state secretary; G. O. Korndorfer, Natchez, state treasurer; A. E. Tucker, Vicksburg, state advocate; Nicholas Cassino, Vicksburg, state warden; Bishop E. O. Garow of Natchez, state chaplain. Delegates to the supreme convention were State Deputy Favre, and Joseph Ros, Pascagoula, past state deputy alternates, Dr. John E. O'Flynn and C. B. Strebel both of Meridian.

The state convention opened Sunday morning with all the delegates

VETERAN CATHOLIC EDUCATOR, 89, DIES AT NATCHEZ, MISS.

Brother Stanislaus Makes Last Wish For Burial at Bay St. Louis.

Brother Stanislaus pioneer educator and founder of St. Aloysius college at New Orleans, died early Sunday morning at D'Evereau Hall, Natchez, Miss., where he had taught in D'Evereau Hall orphanage since 1913. He was 89 years old.

For 73 years, Brother Stanislaus had been a member of the Congregation of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, having gained admission March 15, 1859. Ten years later he pronounced his final vows.

Founded College at New Orleans.

He founded St. Aloysius college at New Orleans in 1869, just after taking his final vows, and remained at the head of the school until 1875 when he was called to found a school in Augusta, Ga. St. Aloysius college was located at Chartres and Barracks streets at that time.

Brother Stanislaus, who was Thomas Keating, was born at Tipperary, Ireland. When a child, he was brought by his parents to Mobile, Ala., where he joined the Brothers of the Sacred Heart. After serving in New Orleans and Augusta, Ga., he served as principal at St. Stanislaus college, and taught at Vicksburg, Miss., and at Indianapolis, Ind., until 1901, when he founded St. Joseph's Normal School at Metuchen, N. J.

Assigned to Natchez

Brother Stanislaus remained as head of that school until 1905, when he again was assigned to St. Stanislaus College at Bay St. Louis, where he labored for eight years. At the end of that period, at his own request, he was assigned to the Natchez orphanage, where he remained until his death.

For the past year, he had been under a physician's care. Following funeral services at Natchez, the body was sent to Bay St. Louis. It was his dying wish that he be laid to rest beside the remains of his fellow pioneers in the upbuilding of the college here.

Generous Response To Appeal Made By Missionary Union

The appeal for dishes by the Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church for the orphanage at Jackson was met with generous response, Mrs. W. O. Sylvester announces. The ladies wish to thank especially, Mr. Jos. O. Mauffray, Mr. Henry W. Osinach, Mrs. Petri, Mr. Leo W. Seal and Mr. McQueen for their aid.

CONGRESSMAN ROBERT S. HALL ANNOUNCES FOR ELECTION.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE SIXTH
CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF MISSISSIPPI:

I hereby announce for reelection as your Congressman, subject to the action of the Democratic Party.

I take this opportunity of again thanking you for the generous vote given me when elected to this important office. To reward you for the confidence reposed I have endeavored at all times to render diligent and conscientious service—remaining constantly on the job looking after your interest.

I was signally honored at the beginning of my second term by being made chairman of an important committee which recognition and confidence few members have ever acquired in so short a time. Because of my experience, and recognition by the leaders here I shall be able to render even better service and make you a stronger and more valuable representative the next two years.

I have consistently stood for and advocated legislation for the best interest of my people and section. The position I have taken on questions and every vote cast is reflected in the Congressional Record—which demonstrates my faithfulness to your interest.

The many important matters pending here will prevent my returning home to enter an active campaign until congress adjourns. I hope therefore that my many friends will take care of my interest until I am permitted to be with you.

I solicit and shall appreciate an endorsement by your vote.

Yours sincerely,
ROBT. S. HALL.

POLITICAL CAULDRON IN LOCAL DISTRICT SOON AT BOILING POINT

Supreme Court Judge Griffith and State Highway Commissioner J. F. Thames to Have Opposition—Colmer Out Against Congressman Hall—"Red" Morgan Mentioned as Likely Candidate for Highway Commissioner

With the legislature in adjournment, the interest of Mississippians in general and in this territory in particular is turning toward the coming elections in August when highway commissioners, supreme court judges and congressmen will be elected.

All these posts will be at stake this summer and the political pot, which has been simmering while the lawmakers were in session, is steaming up toward the boiling point.

The three men now holding the congressional, court and highway positions in the southern district are Robert S. Hall, congressman from the sixth district; Virgil A. Griffith of Gulfport, supreme court judge from the southern district; and J. F. Thames of Mendenhall, highway commissioner from the southern district. It is understood that all three will offer again for re-election.

Thus far, W. M. Colmer, of Pascagoula is the only man to announce as a candidate for the congressional seat now held by Mr. Hall. Others however, are expected to enter the race before many days have passed. Harvey McGehee, of Columbia, former chancellor, has announced for the supreme court place held by Judge Griffith and the entry list in this race probably will increase shortly.

New interest developed in the highway commission contest this week when it was learned from authoritative sources that C. M. "Red" Morgan will be a candidate for this position.

Mr. Morgan was interviewed by the Hattiesburg American on the basis of this report and he indicated that he will make a definite statement soon in regard to his intentions.

Mr. Morgan is now serving his second consecutive term as railroad commissioner from the southern district. He also served a full term in 1920-24.

Supporters of Mr. Morgan from all over the district are said to have solicited his entry in the highway commission race and he is believed to be lending a receptive ear to these requests.

WAVELAND CITIZEN ELECTED

To Membership Board of Directors Local Bank—New President and Vice President.

At a meeting of the Merchants Bank & Trust Company, held Wednesday night and called for the purpose, two executive officers and one director were unanimously elected. Chas. G. Moreau was elected to succeed the retiring president and Walter J. Gex, Jr., was elected to fill the place made vacant by Mr. Moreau as former first vice president, both gentlemen actively assuming and entering upon their duties.

Mr. Moreau is one of the original founders of the Merchants Bank & Trust Company and has been actively connected with its management ever since, and needs no further introduction to the public, particularly in these columns.

Mr. Gex is well-known and popular young attorney who has already taken his position in the business world and needs no introduction. He is active, successful and enjoys the popular esteem of all who know him over his wide circle of acquaintances both in city and county and along the gulf coast.

Mr. John K. Edwards will continue in that high position of honor and responsibility as chairman of the board of directors and W. Val Yates in the capacity of cashier, with no other changes.

Elected Herlihy Director.

St. Margaret's Daughters

To Have Food Shower

Monday, June 6th.

Due to the numerous demands made on the St. Margaret's Daughters for food, a special meeting was held on Wednesday to devise means to supply this help.

At the meeting it was decided to hold another food package shower of non-perishable foods, on Monday, June 6, 1932.

The ladies in charge of the food package shower will be at the convent gymnasium all day Monday, June 6th to receive the packages.

Everyone is urged to help this movement for it is a terrible condition to be hungry and not able to get food.

Do your bit and you will be doing your duty, for God has ordained that we should help the poor and needy.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS TAX ON FRANCHISE OF BUS LINES IN MISSISSIPPI

In Deciding Case From Forest County In General Terms Applicable to Entire State—Court Says Franchise Is Personal Property And is Subject to Ad Valorem Tax

ASPHALT ROAD TO ORLEANS BY AUG. 1, SAYS THAMES

Work of Surfacing Remaining 18 Miles Will Begin Early in June, Highway Commissioner Says

Responding to a request of representatives of Chambers of Commerce along the Mississippi Coast for information as to when the Old Spanish Trail in Hancock county would be put in a more passable shape, J. L. Thames, state highway commissioner for the southern district of Mississippi, addressed a meeting at the Gulfport Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning attended by representatives from Biloxi, Gulfport, Long Beach, Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis.

He reviewed somewhat in detail the activities of the three present state highway commissioners, showing difficulties under which they have labored on account of financial conditions.

Eighteen miles of the present road in Mississippi between Bay St. Louis and the Louisiana line remains to be surfaced, he explained, 10 miles of this road already having received a triple coat of asphalt penetration surface. This 18 miles had been graded, he said, and was now ready to receive the asphalt surfacing. Machinery for the purpose would be on the ground, he thought, early in June and the work of surfacing would begin at once.

It would require about three weeks to put on the initial coat of surfacing, he thought, and traffic could be turned on the road in a short time after the surfacing was done. Other coats of surfacing would be applied, as rapidly as possible, he said.

Detours would be provided while the work was in progress in order that traffic would not be hindered. Funds were available to carry the work on and it was probable that the 18 miles of road would be entirely completed by August 1, he said.

His attention was also called to the bad approach on Highway 49 at the bridge over Big Biloxi River. He assured those present that this bad place would be repaired within the next 30 days.

Mr. Thames gave information concerning the probability of carrying out the road maintenance and road building program in Mississippi during the next two years. All the funds now available for road maintenance in Mississippi, he said, was that derived from a 2 1/2 cent gasoline tax. This sum which was decreasing instead of increasing at the present time, was inadequate to do anything but maintain, in a way, the 6000 miles of road, and the $5,000,000 worth of bridges under the state highway commission.

Federal aid money for road purposes in Mississippi, he said, had been accumulating on account of the state not being able to match it and it was his hope, he said, that state bonds voted by the state legislature for road purposes could be sold to match federal aid money, and that road building could be commenced to be paid for by the combined funds in the not far distant future.

If the present federal aid money appropriated by the government for road building in Mississippi could be matched by state money now, the highway commissioners would have 25,000 men at work in 60 days.

Mr. Thames expressed the belief that those officials in the state having the matter in hand would make every possible effort to sell state bonds to match federal appropriations and that a road building program planned by the highway commissioners could be carried out. Highway 49 and 51 were mentioned as projects that would be among the first to receive attention when the road building program began.

Among those present were Tony Ragusin, secretary Biloxi Chamber of Commerce; Mayor J. W. Milner, Gulfport; Mayor H. A. Genung, Long Beach; Mayor Charles Trach, Bay St. Louis and Henry Osinach, Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. R. L. Aubert was chairman and B. C. Cox, secretary, of the meeting.

Assessment by counties of a franchise per-mile tax on bus lines using their roads was upheld by the State Supreme court in a decision handed down this week.

The appeal was taken from a ruling of the Forrest County circuit court by the Teche Lines, Inc., against the Forrest County Board of Supervisors. In view of the general application of the high court's ruling the case's interest is statewide.

The Supreme court opinion was written by Justice Anderson and concurred in by other justices of Division B.

The action was instituted by the state tax collector last summer, who served notice on the Forrest county tax assessor to back-assess the Teche Lines on the value of its franchise which gave the bus company privilege of operating a line over Highway 11 through Forrest County. He ordered an assessment of $1,000 per mile for the approximately 13 miles of the county's roads used by the Teche Company. He further instructed the county assessor to make the assessment for 1928, 1929 and 1930, making a total tax of $39,000.

Amount Reduced

Upon written objection the board of supervisors eliminated the 1928 and 1929 assessments and made a test case of the 1930 tax, by assessing the line $400 per mile for that year. This assessment was upheld by the Forrest circuit judge and affirmed later by the supreme court.

Ad valorem taxes on the Teche Line depot in Hattiesburg had been paid by a Hattiesburg hotel, in which the depot was located, according to an agreed statement of fact between counsel, made a part of the opinion. The Teche Lines "made no kind of return for ad valorem taxation of and for its said certificates or franchise or upon any physical property for the year 1930 in the state of Mississippi, although it paid all highway privilege taxes required of it," the evidence showed.

In the opinion of the circuit judge, which is made a part of the supreme court decision, Judge Anderson said: "We think it clear, well-reasoned and sound and that we could not do better than adopt it as the opinion of this court." The entire opinion of the circuit judge, except the statement of facts in the case is then picked up in full.

The opinion sets out that the certificate from the State Railroad Commission really comprises three franchises: (1) The creative franchises "to be"; (2) The franchise "to do," allowing the franchise holder to perform certain acts of business; and (3) Special franchise, giving the holder authority to possess privileges not enjoyed by corporations in general.

The bus company held that the franchise was not property and therefore could not be taxed. The judge held the franchise to be personal property, which was taxed separate and apart from any property subject to other taxes.

CORRESPONDENT ILL.

V. E. Weber, resident representative of The Sea Coast Echo at Waveland, has been laid up for the past two weeks with a severe case of flu-cold, which explains the absence of the usual column of interesting Waveland news items from The Echo columns of the past two weeks. We hope for his rapid recovery.

You're Welcome!

COLMER ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY W. M. Colmer, resident of Pascagoula, and local district attorney, announced last week in The Sea Coast Echo and other newspapers of the district his candidacy for Congress.

The formal announcement came as no surprise. On the contrary, the able young and successful prosecuting attorney, old enough, however, for ample experience, was looked for since it has long been known that he had acceded to his friends over the district to yield to their solicitation to become a candidate.

During his career as a man in public life he has manifested his ability and willingness and that in no ordinary degree, and in more ways than one. As a representative of the people at Washington we are of the opinion that he would serve his constituency and the interests of the district in that manner that would warrant his election. He is liberal and broad-minded, fully aware of conditions and demands of the time. He is well and favorably known over the district and the voters are well qualified to make the proper selection.

DRAWING GOVERNMENT PAY

THE PEOPLE will probably be surprised to find out that some of the representatives in Congress have relatives on the government payroll who do no work whatever.

During the present session a motion was made in the house that no relative of a congressman should be placed on the payroll unless he actually did the work for which he or she was paid. Without a record vote the motion was defeated.

The people of the country were also somewhat surprised not long ago to find out that certain ex-service men, receiving disability compensation, were well enough to draw salaries running into thousands, from the government. That is what one might call patriotism but it seems illogical for a man able to contend that he was so disabled as to be entitled to compensation from the government.

There are other examples that are almost as bad, but these may help to explain why government is costing so much, and point the way to some economies that might save money.

AMERICA WILL COME BACK.

THE political leaders in Washington have been told that Congress must do something for the unemployed before adjournment.

That there exists a demand for positive action is plain. That the need is urgent is plainer. What to do under the circumstances is harder to answer and more difficult to effect.

One thing, however, is within the reach of every citizen. That is the maintenance of faith in the fundamental recovery of this great republic. It will see brighter days again, happier people and prosperous eras. The going may be rough but the haven is ahead, even though the journey may be long and the way obscured.

PAYING THE COSTS

IN EIGHTEEN YEARS the costs of federal, state and local government have increased several times.

This has been due largely to a demand for improved roads, better schools, and other modern improvements, for which debts have been created, and to an increasing demand upon government by citizens to perform additional services for them.

As a consequence taxes have increased and due to the present economic depression the average citizen cannot pay his taxes as readily as he could when prosperity was being enjoyed.

REAL MENTAL DEPRIVITY.

THE calm deception practiced by John Hughes Curtis, who took advantage of a father's anxiety for his lost son, in an effort to secure a little cheap publicity, is amazing.

That this man, evidently at one time a successful business man, was able to do such a mean thing is almost evidence of a diseased mind. To mislead the Lindberghs and to pretend that he was in touch with those hiding their little son was an abhorrent exhibition of mental depravity.

It's about time for the presidential straw votes to begin to appear.

The Sea Coast Echo is the best advertising medium that we know of in this section of the nation, but it can't make people buy unless the merchants have things to sell that the people want.

There are those who blame the present ills of America upon our democratic system of government. They probably forget that Russia has some woes of her own and that all is not profit in sunny Italy.

Plenty of cash means plenty of boom; plenty of boom means plenty of crash—plenty of crash means plenty of gloom—however there is no use to complete this poem. After a few years you can start at the top again.

SUPREME COURT BUS DECISION.

A Mississippi Supreme court decision handed down at Jackson Monday is to the effect that the decision of a lower court in Forrest county is upheld and as a result the Teche Bus Transfer Company and all other similar companies will in future pay an ad valorem tax heretofore escaped. The court upheld that the franchise granted by the State was personal property and as such was liable to an ad valorem tax the same as any other such property thus assessed.

Heretofore the bus lines have been using extensively hard-surfaced highways that were built with money realized from bond sales, obligations taken care of by a special levy ad valorem tax which railroads and other corporations are paying for, while the bus lines, outside of a vehicle and other license, escaped and used these roads and other public property without pay.

The injustice of this is apparent. The railroads are burdened with taxation while their competitor has been allowed to operate practically without restraint or accountability to the public treasury. The supreme court decision will be hailed with satisfaction by all who realize the injustice heretofore allowed to exist and by those who are tired and exhausted by carrying the major tax burden.

We believe in equal rights to all, but there must be equal justice to all and no one allowed to thrive at the expense of those carrying the burden.

Big business made poor guesses as to the length of the recent prosperity and the bright side of the picture is that they may be just as far wrong about the depth of the present gloom.

THE HUNT ENDS.

THE nation-wide search for the Lindbergh baby has been terminated by the finding of the pathetic remains of the attractive little boy. He disappeared on March first and was probably killed within a few hours or a few days thereafter.

The truth about the kidnapping will probably never be known. If the baby was killed soon after it was taken the crime was the work of diseased minds or of those seeking vengeance for some real or fancied grievance. Even the latter theory would necessitate an act of so much heartlessness that the doers must have been deranged too.

Another possibility is that the baby was held for ransom but those who had him in custody were so frightened and alarmed by the reaction to their deed that their only thought was to get rid of the convicting presence of the child in their possession. Even in such a case it would seem that enough human instinct would remain to have communicated the truth in some indirect manner.

The police authorities are prepared to institute a more vigorous search for the criminals now that their efforts will not interfere with the possible return of the child, but the probability is that the trail has become cold and no certain solution of the crime will ever be made. The Lindbergh kidnapping will probably remain as one of the mysteries of this generation.

One reason why government doesn't work as well as it should is the evident fact that every office-holder has his eye on a better job, higher up.

BROTHER STANISLAUS.

DEATH Sunday at Natchez closed the career of the Rev. Thomas Keating, known in the Catholic order of the Sacred Heart as Brother Stanislaus, and widely recognized as a pioneer educator.

Bro. Stanislaus was no stranger to the people of Bay St. Louis. He had been president of the local college of St. Stanislaus and labored here many years of his long and useful career, a brother 73 years. A native of Ireland he came to this country in his early youth. In 1869 he founded St. Aloysius college at New Orleans and served as its head until 1875 when he founded a similar school at Augusta, Ga., and other places, also serving as executive head of the various institutions conducted by the order.

Bro. Stanislaus was well known locally and beloved by all who knew him. It was his fondness for Bay St. Louis, well a tribute to possibly the place he loved best, that he requested his remains be buried in Bay St. Louis. Accordingly, his body was brought to Bay St. Louis and Tuesday afternoon tenderly laid away in the college cemetery, with that prayer of peace to his ashes on the lips of all who knew him when the solemn hour of his burial was at hand.

One trouble with the people of this country is that they pay too much attention to freak organizations, which function to make jobs for the organizers.

A CHANCE FOR BAY ST. LOUIS.

SMALL CITIES and towns wishing to attract attention might do well to beautify the highways that approach their limits. Nothing would so attract the traveller as to meet with scenes of beauty as he approached such an oasis in a welter of hodge-podge civilization as it is seen along the highways of the nation.

Nearly every community boasts of its climate and natural beauty but few of them have placed enough faith in their claims. Why not take advantage of the opportunity to make an unforgettable impression on the tourists who pass our way.

If readers of these words doubt this, let them take a long trip through several states. If they are lucky enough to come across one section where some slight effort has been made to make beautiful the roadside scenery they will not forget the place.

Now that things are on a rock-bottom basis and we have forgotten our dreams of becoming the biggest metropolis in the world, why not take some of our spare time and make a man-size effort to make all highways leading into Bay St. Louis express the natural beauty that abounds in the Gulf Coast section.

VIEWS OF OUR NEWS

By Chicagoan

A Review of the News of Last Week's Echo.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 24.—One of my younger readers wrote me two weeks ago saying she was about to graduate from high school and asking my opinion regarding her prospects if she located in Chicago. Thinking of course, she was seeking a position, I told her of the thousands standing in line, for the thin soup of charity, of the broken men and women who fight over what is to be salvaged from garbage dumps and of the plight of the jobless young woman, which is so terrible that I dared not describe it in detail.

To my surprise the young lady answered that it wasn't so much a job she was seeking, although she confessed she'd like the thrill of some interesting occupation in which she could develop her talents discovered during her high school career. "But," she explained, "the main reason I plan going to Chicago is because there isn't a thing doing in this town. . . . Life must be ever so much more interesting in a big city."

At the risk of being classed with the uninteresting fossils my youthful correspondents studied in their biology classes, I assert that there's always something doing in Bay St. Louis. Last week for one thing, the Echo was published again. Nothing like that happened anywhere else. Big City newspapers boasting of their originality, are filled largely with the same syndicate news and cartoons. Morning and evening identical headlines appear from New York to San Francisco, from Minneapolis to San Antonio, but the editorials, the news and the local advertising in the Sea Coast Echo can be found in no other paper in the world.

Poppy Day will be observed in Bay St. Louis on May 28. The night previous will be given over to a Legion program, at which Hon. Carl Marshall is scheduled to deliver an eloquent address on the sacrifices of Khaki clad lads who died on foreign fields and of those who escaped graves in strange lands only to return to their country with lifelong afflictions. How much more significance it will have than it will in Chicago. Outside your city limits, just a short distance away, stretch fields like those in Flanders where rows of growing plants nod their silent approval of the sentiment expressed in McRae's touching poem. Chicagoans will buy poppies, but to him who can view the fields of Hancock county there will come a vision of the battlefields much finer in detail than one inspired by rows of arrogant skyscrapers.

Death with its burden of sadness comes to city, town and country. The hand of man has not the power to deflect its blows. Great and good men and women die in large cities and are soon forgotten, except by their families and most intimate friends. But in Bay St. Louis the exemplary life of Andrea Scafidie will never be forgotten, and the day is far distant when the memory of that devout Christian and conscientious citizen will even begin to fade. Long after those who now mourn him have joined their loved ones in eternal glory, new generations will be reminded not only of his material achievements but also, as the Echo so beautifully expressed it, that Andrea Scafidie met life and death, passive and submissive to his maker.

For the boys privileged to attend Camp Stanislaus this season, romance and beauty are theirs for the taking. Under the kind guidance of Brother Peter their culture and love for the beautiful will be developed; their natural discontent turned into channels from which progress and unselfish service will flow. Follow those boys on one of their hikes. See the plants lift their heads to the morning sun; watch the flowers fold their petals as they are sprinkled with the evening dew. Listen to the songs of the birds and to the stories the crickets and the bullfrogs have to tell. Witness the dances of the calves, the coils and the lams. Ah, they dim the memory of the wonderful Pavlova! Walk home slowly in the night time. And walk erect! For above you is a royal canopy of soft blue set with a million jewels of sparkling gold.

LEGISLATURE

The Mississippi legislature has adjourned. For which we may express due gratitude.

The legislature has enacted some economies. The biennial budget is reduced nearly one-third—to twenty millions. Some slicing done—still too high for "comfort."

Twenty weeks of recurrent harmony and wrangling close in "love-feast" happiness.

The record indicates some rather definite achievements—

Reduction in the budget—some—but not enough—

The passage of the sales tax—"roll your own."

Sharp paring of official-employee state salaries—

The legislators apply the knife to nearly every one save governor and selves.

Departmental appropriations cut from one-sixth to one-half—still "getting by."

A small increase in gas taxation—for general purposes—

A one cent tax on Kerosene—little gain.

A heavy tax on bus-truck transportation—still too light.

Tobacco taxation to hit pipe-smoker and tobacco "eater"—

Lowering of the income tax to catch the little fellows.

Increase taxes on amusements—fair enough.

Ways and means provided for twelve million dollars in new bonds—no takers in the market.

A highway Mussolini spurned—solid common sense.

A domineering state administration works its will in some things; fails in others—

A plenitude of errors; much good in ultimate—

All in all, the legislature session seemingly has brought some benefit. At least we have started out to set our Mississippi house in order—just a start.

But a start is something.

If we never start, we never finish. Apparently, Mississippi now is on the way—

At least—a little way.—Meridian Star.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

John F. Condon, 72-year old negotiator with Lindbergh kidnappers: "I know the kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby and he will be caught."

Floyd Gibbons, newspaper correspondent: "Japan is simply looking for a fight."

Wm. P. Kenney, President, Great Northern Railway:

"Young men who were raised on farms are returning from the cities to farms or are considering farm locations."

Thomas H. Massie, Lieutenant, U. S. N., Honolulu defendant:

"We are just a young couple trying to face the future and forget the past."

Mrs. Paul Whiteman, former stage star, and wife of orchestra leader:

"No wife should permit her husband to weigh twice as much as she does."

Douglas Fairbanks, back from Tahiti:

"Why worry about life over here when you can live in Tahiti for 90 cents a week?"

Robert B. Howell, U. S. Senator of Nebraska:

"Sheep are selling in Omaha for as low as ten cents a head. That's a peek at the agricultural situation."

convention held in Biloxi last week.

Now if that is the way to sell bread, will not the employment of the same force assist in the selling of commodities less universally known than bread? A bakery sign on a building implies that there is bread for sale within. Yet bakers find that their success depends upon their advertising in their local newspapers. Some other merchants still think the fact of their being in business is sufficient to maintain their sales volumes. These do not happen to be the progressive grocers of Bay St. Louis, however.

BE THANKFUL AND GLAD.

I look back o'er life's span of three score and ten And think of Nature's beauties—God's gift to men. These I denied myself, I was money mad, Oh to turn back I would be thankful and glad.

I should be thankful and glad for the food I eat And cheerfully help the needy I meet. I should be glad I must earn my daily bread And cease grumbling and start smiling instead. I should be thankful I am not dumb, blind or lame And not handicapped in fighting life's game, And always enjoy the sunshine, the air, the flowers And everything good, for God sent all these.

Oh! if I could be a child again and kneel At my mother's knee, her tender kiss to feel. I would cheerfully give every earthly gain, If I could but live my life over again.

We should be thankful we have a soul that lives, To enjoy the things that the Almighty gives. For the sunshine and flowers we should be glad And always be smiling and never be sad.

CONGRESSMAN HALL HAS MANY ACHIEVEMENTS TO HIS CREDIT IN CONGRESS

Partial Review of Things He Has Been Directly Responsible and Instrumental in Bringing About—Has Long Record and Is Recognized by Congress By Figuring On Some of the More Important Committees.

Congressman Robt. S. Hall, who announces for reelection in this issue before going to congress had held the offices of State Senator, County Attorney, District Attorney and Circuit Judge. The experience acquired and duties performed in these offices qualified him to at once gain recognition as an able Congressman. By his constant attention to the legislation before the Committees to which he was assigned he is known for his energy and ability. He advanced so rapidly the leaders in Congress in appreciation of his efforts elected him Chairman of the important Irrigation and Reclamation Committee at the beginning of his second term. This high position is seldom attained by Congressmen serving only one term. This Committee considers and reports many important measures to Congress—affecting the farmers of the Nation as well as the expenditure of millions of dollars. It is said this Committee never had a more efficient and courteous Chairman. His services are highly appreciated and applauded by both Democratic and Republican Members.

He is also a hardworking member of the Indian Affairs Committee. Is Chairman of the most important sub-committee of this committee and his sub-committee has been delegated the authority to recast the present law regarding enrollments of Indians. He has been for sometime conducting hearings on this important matter. His findings and recommendations will most probably be enacted into law.

The Speaker of the House in 1931 appointed him one of the two Democrats on the Special Committee to visit all important points in America to investigate by public hearings the activities of the Communists. He spent several months in this hard work and many of his recommendations of legislation relieving our Nation of this menace is now pending before Congress with favorable outlook for passage. His appointment on this Committee during his first term in Congress was a signal honor and recognition of his ability.

He has been instrumental in securing for this the Sixth Congressional District in three years the million dollar Soldiers' Home at Biloxi; a $245,000 Post Office at Hattiesburg; a $70,000 Post Office at Lumberton; a $70,000 Post Office allotment for Columbia; a $50,000 fish hatchery to be located in this district in 1933.

He has been energetic in the interest of the Gulf Coast. Succeeded in maintaining the port at Pascagoula after the Treasury Department had ordered it closed. Aided in securing the appropriation for Gulfport and Biloxi Harbor—which work in improving them is now underway. Secured light-houses and other needed improvements of the entire Ship Island Harbor.

He has sponsored and supported all legislation in the interest of farmers. He is a friend to the war veteran. Has championed their cause at every turn. Has now pending and hopes to secure its passage this session a bill to transfer Ship Island to the local American Legion Post for a resort and beauty spot for the soldier boys. He has fought hard for and with other Congressmen to retain the present appropriation for Vocational Education. He is tireless in his work in the interest of education. Is sponsoring and working for a sound currency system which will increase the circulation of money—thereby enabling the farmers and business men to get out of debt by raising commodity prices.

He is an ardent friend to labor and stands for a living wage. He fought against the moratorium in payment of $252,000,000 to America by foreign nations and is inalterably opposed to the cancellation of the foreign debts to this Nation.

He supported the reconstruction program, believing it will aid the banks and they in turn can assist the farmer and working man which will eventually, relieve the present depression. He has stood for economy in government expenses believing many Bureaus may be abolished—thereby relieving the tax payer materially. Voted for and assisted in passing bill to reduce his own salary as well as the salaries of his clerks and other officials.

He believes the Smoot-Harley Tariff Bill is entirely unfair in that it favors certain groups and sections at the expense of others, and especially his people.

Is working with his leaders to pass a fair and equitable tariff bill so that all sections of the country may benefit thereby.

He has not been absent a day from his post of duty since taking his oath of office as Congressman—except to attend the funeral of his close personal friend and co-laborer for their beloved State, Honorable Percy Quinn, who was interred at Hattiesburg, February 7th last.

He expects to remain at his post of duty—even though it requires all his time between now and the election to pass legislation necessary to relieve the depression and distress throughout the Nation.

He has answered every letter coming from his constituents which is about 50 per day; and has attended to every request from his district. He believes "public office is a public trust" and that all his time, experience and ability belong to the people who have honored him; and shall thus continue as long as the people of his district desire his service in Congress.

He believes with the advancement he has made in Congress he can be much more serviceable to his district than in the past. He desires reelection because of this belief—and because he delights in giving his best to the people who have trusted and honored him with public office.

Program of the Orient At Baptist Church To Be Repeated at Pass Christian

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

FAIRY MAGIC.

To Be Presented by the Primary Grades S. J. A. Thursday June 2, 7:30 P. M.

Having given their older sisters the "right of way" in the line of entertainments during this school session the Minims of S. J. A. decided that it was high time for them to show what they could do in the way of theatricals to diminish the debt of S. J. A. They will present Fairy Magic, Thursday, June 2nd at 7:30 P. M. The first, second and third grades will shoulder the responsibility of this play. Three of the seventh grade girls will help these little tots by taking the older parts of the cast. The third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades will also contribute a chorus.

Fairy Magic is a pretty fantasy in two acts specially written for children. It will delight you with its story, color and movement. Please come to the S. J. A. Gym Thursday evening at 7:30 and show these little folks that you appreciate their efforts and good will. Admission 20c, children 10c.

WASHINGTON EXAMINATIONS OCCUPY THIS WHOLE WEEK AND PART OF NEXT.

This has been a particularly busy week for the High School. The examinations from Washington have begun since Monday and will continue daily throughout the week. Saturday not excepted and on through two days of next week. Naturally they are the all absorbing topic of conversation and after each examination little buzzing groups may be seen here and there commenting on the questions, comparing them with those of other years and probably wondering what they would have gotten had they studied harder.

On Monday, May, 23rd the first examinations, 1st and 3rd year Religion was taken, then on Tuesday, 24th, Mathematics I, II and III; Wednesday, 25th, Latin, I, II, and III; Thursday, 26th, History, American and Mediaeval; Friday, 27th, English II and IV; Saturday, 28th, French I, II, III, and IV and bookkeeping. June 1, Chemistry will be taken, while Music, June 2, will complete the list.

Of course, we will all breathe a sigh of relief when the afternoon of June 2nd will have arrived, for then our tasks will have been completed. Barely a week will intervene between the date of the last examination and the Commencement Exercises which will take place Wednesday, June 8th. There will be plenty of work in English, History, Mathematics and Science still to be done, and as the time between examination and commencement is shorter than usual this year it will mean extra work to get everything through on time.

SODALITY NEWS. S. J. A. Attends Joint Crowning at Pass Christian. A great majority of the girls from the S. J. A. Sodality attended the joint crowning of the Gulf Coast Union of Children of Mary held at Pass Christian last Sunday.

The ceremony was held outdoors and proved most beautiful and impressive. The various Sodality met in the church at Pass Christian and from there filed in procession to the front of the school building where a temporary altar beautifully decorated with ferns, roses and lilies had been erected.

Father O'Sullivan delivered a splendid sermon on the just claims which Mary has to the many exalted titles that have been given her. He also showed how fitting it was that Children of Mary should show special love and devotion to the Blessed Virgin in ceremonies such as this one.

A representative of the Gulfport Sodality assisted by six maids who represented the other Sodality of the Union crowned Our Blessed Mother. An Act of Consecration was read by John Hickman from the St. Stanislaus Sodality. To spiritual bouquets offered by the various units were read. Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament ended this most touching ceremony.

He was a failure as an architect, as he went on the stage.

LAKESHORE NINE DEFEATS DELISLE 12-7

The Lakeshore "Booze Heads" baseball nine outscored the Delisle team in a very wet game. Neither team scored until the fifth inning, when Delisle scored three runs. Both teams went scoreless in the sixth inning. But the tuns changed in the first half of the seventh when the Booze Heads started a fierce hitting attack and scored 10 runs.

In their half of the seventh Delisle scored two runs. Both teams went scoreless again in the eighth. In the ninth inning both teams scored two runs and the game ended with the score being 12-7.

COMMENT ON SPORTS BY SHERIDAN

Yankees Set Pace Athletics Going Better Cincinnati Stronger Burgoon King On Top

The interseasonal series ended with the New York Yankees, in the American league, beating off their western invaders in every combat, ending with a nine-game winning stretch unbroken by a single defeat. In making this record the club had wonderful pitching, with four successive shut-out games.

The next best record in the American league for the two weeks period belongs to the Athletics. Connie Mack's boys won seven of eleven games, pulled up a few games on the field, except the Yankees and passed the St. Louis Browns, who played good ball against the eastern teams. The Browns were the only other club to get better than an even break, winning seven of twelve games.

The Yankee sprint carried the team to first place, shoving the Senators, Indians and Tigers down a notch each. As expected, these western teams, on top for the first week, found the going a bit rough in their invasion, each losing three more games than they won. Chicago winning four out of nine, was the second best of the western teams in the invasion, and the fact that the Boston Red Sox had a park to entertain the visitors, was a pleasant recollection to the westerners who took ten of the eleven games there.

The Senators, off to a fast start against eastern competition, could only break even during their home stay of ten games.

In the National league the invaders were also repulsed by the home teams, which were the western clubs. When the count was complete the east won only twenty games while the west managed to take twenty-five. The drop of Philadelphia from third to seventh place tells how hard the going was for them.

The best playing in the older circuit, during the interseasonal war, was that of the Cubs, who took eight out of twelve games, and the Reds were not far behind, getting nine out of fourteen. The Cardinals, breaking even, held fourth place, while the Pirates, winning only two of seven games, dropped into the cellar.

For the invaders the New York Giants alone managed to win more than they lost, taking five out of nine games and moving from the cellar to sixth place, passing not only the Pirates, but the Phillies as well. Brooklyn and Boston each lost more games than they won. The former moved up a peg to fifth place while the latter surrendered the top rung to the better playing Cubs.

Burgoon King reigns as three-year old king by virtue of his victory in the Preakness, which follows his triumph in the Derby. He is thus the third horse to win both events, the other two being Gallant Fox and Sir Barton. In nine days Burgoon King won $102,690, which is more than you can say for most horses during the same period. The Preakness was worth just $50,375 and a cup.

Chick Hafey, bespectacled outfielder of the Reds, now showing signs of rejuvenation, is showing the boys what a mistake the Cardinals made when they let him go. He is hitting the ball in fine style, being on or near the top, and seems to be quite a factor in helping Cincinnati maintain itself in the running.

Ernie Schaff was hard pressed to win a recent fight with Jack Gross, and as a result some of the wise boys are wondering whether Jack Sharkey's protegee is all that they thought he was. Coming as it did after Ernie's failure to knock out Sandwina two weeks earlier, the fight fans have an idea that Schaff is hardly a man for the top card in boxing shows.

The Army-Navy battle is practically certain for next fall if the unemployment crisis still exists and furnishes an excuse for the institutions to line up on the gridiron. The game, however, will hardly go to New York, as it is the Navy's time to select the site of the battle, and the midshipmen have been partial to Philadelphia. Franklin Field is ideal for football with its new double decked stands rivaling the Yale bowl, an has a seating capacity of around 70,000 people.

FIRST: Beginning at the southeast corner of the Church Lot (Napoleon Church) and running east 12 chains and 79 links to a post; thence North 1 chain and 5 links to a post on the Western line of James Murphy land, thence west 12 chains and 79 links to a post, thence south 1 chain and 57 links to place of beginning. Containing 2 acres more or less in Section 29 (Simon Favre Claim Section 31) Township 8 South of Range 16 West, Being the same line of land conveyed to Joseph Hover by Freeman Jones as per deed recorded in Vol. X, page 311 of the records of deeds of said County and State.

SECOND: Beginning at a post on the section line between sections 20 & 29 in Township 8 South of Range 16 West and 36 chains and 82 links west of the east boundary line of the Simon Favre land claim; thence running west 14 chains and 30 links to the east margin of the public road; thence south 12 degrees west 5 chains and 42 links to the line of the lot reserved for the Napoleon Church; thence east 3 chains and 17 links; thence south 1 chain and 58 links; thence east 12 chains and 69 links; thence north 7 chains to the place of beginning, containing ten acres more or less and being in Section 29 (Simon Favre Claim Section 31) township 8 south of range 16 west, being a part of the Simon Favre Claim number 31, township 8, south of range 16 West. Being also the same land conveyed to Joseph Hover by H. A. Battiste, by deed recorded in Book L, page 243 of the records of deeds of said County and State.

THIRD: Beginning at the southeast corner of the land sold to Joseph Hover by Freeman Jones and running south 209 feet, thence west 522 feet; thence north 20 feet, to the place of beginning. Being a part of the Simon Favre claim in Section 31, Township 8, South of Range 16 West, containing 2 1/2 acres. Being the same land conveyed to Joseph Hover by James G. Shibley, by deed recorded in Book A-1, page 65 of the deed records of said County.

And default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness, and the said Bank having requested the undersigned Trustee to foreclose same for the purpose of paying said indebtedness and costs, therefore, notice is hereby given that I will offer for sale and will sell said land at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, before the front door of the court house of said county, in the City of Bay St. Louis, within lawful hours, on MONDAY, JUNE 6TH, 1932 being the First Monday of the month, for the purpose of paying said indebtedness, and costs.

ADJOURNMENT, RELIEF IS UPPERMOST IN MINDS OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

By Representative Robert S. Hall
HOPES OF EARLY
ADJOURNMENT FADING.

CAPITOL HILL, May 23.—Hopes of an early adjournment of Congress are fading. It had been tentatively planned to adjourn June 10 to permit members desiring to do so to attend the national conventions of their respective parties, both of which are to be held in Chicago in June.

While the House, barring unforeseen complications and delays, will be ready to shut up shop on June 10, the Senate still has a great deal of important legislation to dispose of, and besides a persistent filibuster against import duties on coal, copper, crude rubber, lumber and oil is seriously interfering with progress on the legislative program. The main objection to these items is that the proposed duties would tend to increase the cost of these commodities to the consumer without contributing much, if anything, in the way of revenue. It is furthermore argued that they are not germane to the tax bill and consequently should be considered in a separate tariff measure.

VARIOUS PLANS FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

As I stated last week, practically every member of both Houses feels that it would be unthinkable to adjourn Congress without passing some kind of unemployment relief legislation. There are more plans than one can shake a stick at. In fact, the divergent opinions of sponsors of the various plans is the chief obstacle that must be overcome before any unemployment relief legislation can be passed. The plan suggested last week by Speaker Garner is favorably regarded by a great many members of the House. He advocates passage of the Huddleston bill for placing at the disposal of the President, $100,000,000 for the relief of acute suffering in any section of the country; increasing the base of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000, so as to make loans without any restriction whatever where adequate security could be furnished, and the issuance of bonds in the amount of $1,000,000,000 for financing a gigantic Federal building program.

STATES, COUNTIES AND CITIES MIGHT BORROW.

Under this plan States, counties and cities would be eligible to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The $1,000,000,000 bond issue is for the erection of public buildings and for work on other construction projects already provided for in legislation approved by Congress and the President. To avoid interference with present plans for balancing the budget, Mr. Garner would impose a tax of one-third of one cent a gallon on gasoline to cover the interest on the bonds and to create a sinking fund for their retirement. This tax could be repealed when economic conditions should justify it.

BANKHEAD BILL FOR REHABILITATION.

Of all legislation hitherto passed by the House during the present session, it is generally agreed that none is more meritorious than the Bankhead bill, which authorizes a $4,000,000 appropriation for continuing vocational rehabilitation for four years after the end of the next fiscal year. This fund is to be expended at the rate of $1,000,000 a year with the States on a 50-50 basis under the Federal Board for Vocational Education. This work consists of educating, training and fitting persons disabled in accidents or otherwise for earning a livelihood. Upwards of 50,000 persons have thus been rehabilitated since the law became effective in 1920. The average cost per individual was $221. On the other hand, it costs the various States from $300 to $500 a year to keep such persons as require vocational rehabilitation in poorhouses and other institutions. All except four States are participating in the cooperative rehabilitation program.

DEMOCRAT AND REPUBLICAN B. B. TEAMS TO CLASH.

House Democratic and Republican base ball teams will clash at Griffith Stadium in June. Representatives McMillan of South Carolina and Carter of Wyoming, respectively, are captains of the Democratic and Republican teams. Gene Tunney and Will Rogers will umpire the game. The entire gate receipts will be turned over to the local Community Chest for the relief of the unemployed in the District of Columbia.

Causes of Accidents On Public Highways Are From Many Causes

Statistics gathered by the Mississippi Highway Commission disclose that automobile accidents on Mississippi highways averaged a little more than 10 a day from January 1 to February 29, inclusive, says the Meridian Star.

Three hundred and sixty-nine of these accidents were blamed to reckless or careless driving. One hundred and twenty accidents were blamed to defective cars. Whiskey was blamed for thirty-six of the accidents. Thirty-seven were blamed to conditions of the roads.

The weather was blamed for only four of the accidents.

Bad brakes and one-eyed cars were responsible for the accidents enumerated under defective cars.

The highway commission is said to be using every possible endeavor to reduce accidents on state highways, asking police authorities and law administrators officers to aid in this endeavor.

The highway commissioners stress individual responsibility as one means of reducing accidents. In this respect the commission points out:

"It isn't the end of man's responsibility to do the right thing on the highway—in doing everything he can to be safe, he must remember that he can be held jointly responsible if he makes no effort to avoid trouble even when he meets someone violating traffic laws."

Back to the individual seems to offer more hope for success in preventing highway accidents than most other remedies offered.

Reforestation Picnic At Madison Place on Saturday of This Week

Friends of reforestation have been invited to a picnic to be given Saturday of this week, May 28, at 12 o'clock (noon), at the Reforestation Tower, Madison Place, near Logtown. There will be few short talks by people in authority on reforestation and preservation of forest resources, and a special feature of the occasion will be a presentation of cups to some of the young "fire-fighters" for their work during the past fire season.

Edibles and other refreshment will be served and the affair will prove one both of interest and of constructive benefit. The greatest asset of Hancock County is its chief resources, the forest. The piney woods will yield a fortune and ample living to many and it is well that this work be continued and encouraged to the fullest extent, every man, woman and child in the county co-operating. The H. Weston Lumber Company, chief factors in the development of Hancock county, are sponsoring the event, with the State Reforestation department officially co-operating.

SUPTS. OF EDUCATION IN MEETING ADOPT WISE RESOLUTIONS

Say Depression Period Must Be Fought by "Most Courageous Course Of Action"

County Superintendents of Education, in convention at Jackson last week, realized the depressed condition and unless some proper action of intelligent retrenchment is adopted, it would otherwise be hopeless. A set of resolutions reflecting wisdom, was adopted, which reflects the attitude of that body, collectively as well as individually, and is here given in full in order the public may be informed and realize how well the interest of schools and the cause of education is taken care of, viz:

Whereas, the county superintendents of education convened for their annual meeting, realizing that they have passed through a period of depression such as has rarely been known previously, and foreseeing that the ensuing year will be laden with difficulties that can be overcome only by the most courageous course of action, hereby adopt the following resolutions:

First—We realize fully the almost impossible task that has confronted the Governor and the Legislature for the past few months. To them we wish to extend thanks for their kindly attitude toward the schools and the children of the state. We know there was no other recourse and that the appropriations for the schools had to be reduced. Even though the schools will have to be operated next year on much less than during the past two years it is our purpose to make the schools just as efficient as the teachers of the state can make them.

Second—We appreciate the fact that conditions make it necessary for salaries to be reduced. We expect to serve our counties in the same manner as heretofore because we realize that this is a privilege and a responsibility.

Third—We resolve as county superintendents that we will reduce expenses by every reasonable means at our disposal. We will make budgets of receipts and expenditures and will remain within the limits of each item in these budgets. We propose to reduce expenses in the following ways:

(1) By consolidating transportation routes where possible by increasing the capacity of our vehicles.

(2) By limiting the transportation service to those entitled to it by law.

(3) By eliminating every unnecessary school, both high school and elementary.

(4) By encouraging the patrons to send only children who are six and over to school.

(5) By giving every teacher, including the principal, a maximum teacher load.

(6) By eliminating all unnecessary teachers.

Fourth—In as much as an eight months term as a minimum must constitute a school year if the children are to receive a credit for work done, we pledge ourselves to see that every child has the benefit of the minimum term with whatever funds are available.

Lack of Courageous Leadership One Cause of World Depression

Melvin A. Traylor, of Chicago Cites Human Failure in World War Crisis

"New Era" Theory a Myth

Speaking before the International Chamber of Commerce at Washington, Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First National Bank of Chicago, said in part:

Reams have been written, countless addresses have been made, and more will follow in the search for the genesis of the present world depression; and, likely, recovery will come and the crisis be only a memory without there having been found a universally accepted cause or unanimous agreement on methods for the prevention of future defaults. But I cannot escape the conclusion that the dawn of the present situation broke over the world in July, 1914, and it came not from ignorance of the ultimate results of the course chosen, but because of a complete breakdown of world political sanity.

There was no lack of knowledge of the consequences, but rather of courage to face the facts, to throttle national pride, and to demand common counsel in an honest search for a basis of peace. Such a search might have failed, but, unfortunately, history does not indicate that it was honestly made.

Leadership Was Lacking I am not a pacifist. Until enlightened understanding points us to the council table of peace rather than to the battlefield, there will be a need for armies and navies. But let us not say that we choose the latter course in ignorance of the tremendous costs of the game. Rather let us admit generally the lack of courageous leadership which dares to align itself with the right at the risk of being unpopular.

The point I would make is that, without prejudice as to guilt, the human element did fail in 1914, and the world then began its march to the tragedy of 1932. For it is tragedy when in a world of plenty there should be so much poverty, and when, in a nation which boasts of its riches, five million or more people willing to work should be unable to find employment.

It is a challenge to the world, and especially to American business and political leadership, which cannot be ignored and must not be shirked. Causes must be determined with some degree of accuracy and remedies discovered and applied. The task is largely that of business leadership.

We would follow almost endlessly the literature on causes and remedies for the world situation, most of them dealing with the purely economic or the semi-political-economic side of the question. To the lay mind it is all more or less confusing, and to the man at the desk frequently beyond the realm of the practical.

Human Angle of Problem

In speaking more particularly of the character of responsible leadership in America, I am assuming that human conduct has differed little in most countries of the world. It is my purpose to talk about the human side of the problem.

If it is the responsibility of business and political leadership to promote the economic and social welfare of the community, it may be worth while to take stock of our conduct and see how we have measured up to our duty in recent years. This much, however, seems certain. The "new era" theory current in the days of our inflated prosperity was a myth, and is equally valueless in our search of relief.

The forces that have been and are at work are as old as the history of economics. Why should there be in this land of plenty, with unlimited facilities for production, abundant harvests, and a surfeit of credit, millions of hungry and unemployed? It is not the fault of those who would work, but can find no work to do. They have little or no choice in shaping their course and while it is true that society owes no one a living, society as far as humanly possible does owe everyone an opportunity to earn a living.

In that obligation we have failed, and until we know wherein we have failed and why, we will not have found that stability which is the universal desire of mankind today.

Mrs. Alvah P. Smith Reports to Central School P.-T. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Central School P.-T. A. was held on Thursday afternoon, May 19th. Mrs. Alvah P. Smith, vice-president, and official delegate to the State Convention at Meridian read a very interesting report on the convention. All those who attended the convention returned full of enthusiastic plans for the coming year.

Mrs. Carl Smith gave an instructive and entertaining talk on "Music in the School," stressing the importance of different kinds of songs for children of different ages. Plans for rewarding the fifth grade, Miss Lois Quinn, teacher, who won the contest for having the largest attendance of parents, teachers, and friends at the P.-T. A. meetings for the year, were discussed, and it was decided to give them a moving-picture party on Saturday evening.

The following committee chairmen were appointed by Mrs. Logan, president:

Membership chairman, Mrs. Leo W. Seal.

Health chairman, Mrs. Jas. Evans.

Finance chairman, Mrs. Donald Marshall.

Hospitality chairman, Mrs. A. T. Terry.

Program chairman, Mrs. Lester Jacobs.

Publications chairman, Mrs. Harry Daponte.

Publicity chairman, Mrs. Briscoe Goldman.

The meeting closed with two songs sung by Mrs. James Sylvester, Mrs. Carl Smith, accompanist, and the singing of old songs by a group of members.

PAPER READ BEFORE METHODIST WOMAN'S MISSIONARY MEETING

The following paper was read before the regular monthly meeting last week of the Woman's Missionary Society, as part of the deliberations and because of its length The Echo was unable to publish it last week as part of a report of the meeting, which was held in the sunparlor of the Western Hotel, with Mrs. W. A. McDonald serving as hostess and Mrs. (Dr.) J. C. Buckley presiding as president.

I am sure that there are few, if any, rational, thoughtful people who do not believe the world would be a far better place if alcoholic drinks could be completely eliminated from it. As a moral issue, the problem has long since been settled.

Twelve years and more ago, the moot question was, "shall we amend the Constitution of the United States of America to prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drinks?" The answer at that time was a convincing Yes. Whether this was wise or whether it was too radical to be practical, is no longer the question. The amendment was ratified, and it can not be modified or repealed overnight. Even if it is repealed, we can never return to conditions which we have long since outgrown.

It seems to me that nothing is so convincingly favorable to the continuance of the amendment as the fact that the majority of the arguments, popularly used in the interests of its repeal. These arguments are so easily riddled by facts, figures and common-sense that nothing is left of them but the childish wail, "We want our liquor!"

Just one clear, strong note comes through the turmoil to command the respect of the dregs, and that is the honest opinion of thousands of sober, peace-loving people that repeal or modification would do something to alleviate the present deplorable crime wave. These good folk do not particularly want liquor; but they believe those clamoring for it would be silenced and the illicit traffic stopped if liquor could be obtained legally, and its sale and consumption controlled. They believe that adequate enforcement is impossible, and that modification, or even complete repeal, would bring about a betterment of the present undeniably terrible condition.

They may be right. But just picture, for a moment, the effect it would have if all these people, and others who are at present sitting on the fence, and saying, "oh yes, it would be wonderful if we could have a really dry country, but we'll never get it," were to get down off the fence and do something that would really help out. Just suppose that all the luke-warm consumers of small seemingly innocent quantities of boot-leg liquor would simply stop buying it. Suppose all who have voted for officials in their towns and cities whom they know to be capable of corruption by the liquor interests would turn about and cast their votes for honest, clean-living men and women. Suppose, to be brief, that prohibition be given just one tenth part of a fair chance to succeed. Within five years, or less, the eighteenth amendment would have sold itself to the public so completely that all talk of referendum or repeal would die a natural death. No individual who buys or accepts the gift of the smallest quantity of illicit liquor has any right to complain of the present horrors of non-enforcement.

We can not hope to wipe out drunkenness completely, either with law or without it. Murder, theft, adultery still flourish after thousands of years of law. But, barring the crime wave in our country in the last few years, these evils have been steadily on the decrease as the laws relative to them become more stringent and education becomes more general. It will be so of alcoholism. Had we been able to make enforcement complete in twelve years, it would have been totally miraculous, utterly unprecedented in human history. What is twelve years, in the face of the centuries that have passed since the patriarchs of our Old Testament preached temperance to their young men? We must be content and undiscouraged with a moderate, steady advance, fighting every step of the way. We are not seriously thinking of abandoning our churches because so many people fail to attend them. No, we seek to make our churches better, more appealing, more convincing. St. Paul said that with the law came sin, but nowhere does he advocate a repeal of the law, rather a better observance of it.

Those who are sunken in appetite will have their liquor anyway, but they are in the minority. The corrective work must be done among those who are now thinking lightly inaccurately, or not at all about the matter. We need an awakened public mind.

The recent tragedy which has shocked and enraged the entire world, and brought shame to this which we are pleased to regard the most advanced and enlightened nation of the world, may serve to hasten long-needed reforms. Our courts are too slow, our public officials too conscienceless, our police machinery too liquor-soaked, to prove any real protection in a case like this. And we never really woke up to this until an innocent child was brutally murdered and his decent, clean-living parents tortured and robbed. The Capone case set us to thinking. The Lindbergh case may start action. So long as gangsters were happily shooting each other up, we let them shoot. But when we ourselves are drawn into the vortex willy-nilly, we must rise and demand protection. Conditions are terrible, barbaric. Our society smells to high heaven.

We must have some immediate reform, and if modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment would bring it about, I think we all would be strong for it. The amendment may have led to this condition, in that much of the present racketeering began among boot-leggers and has grown from that as a nucleus. But would the needed correction be accomplished through repeal, and if so, just exactly how would it be done? I can not see, and I have never heard or read a convincing elucidation of that point.

Of course, the argument is presented that with the removal of prohibition law, the profits from boot-legging would be gone. Let us look at this carefully. If there is great profit in boot-legging, who is gathering it in? Not the small dealer, or the small manufacturer, surely, else there would now be many thriving towns with business and real estate riding the crest of the wave. But instead we have slackened business, worthless real estate, empty homes and business sites. And yet we have rivers of illicit liquor. We all know that. The profits, if any, must be going elsewhere, presumably into the hands of those higher up. Suppose the law were repealed, would these great moguls immediately turn to honest business?

No one is Pollyanna enough to think for a minute that they would. Figures show that less profit is accruing from liquor traffic already than there was in the first years of the dry regime. Hence the increase of racketeering. We need, not to loosen up on the criminal, but to tighten on him. Logically, it seems to me, a modification which would further decrease the profits of boot-legging would merely throw the czars of the underworld into other forms of robbery and extortion, and would provide no improved machinery for catching them and bringing them to court.

As to the effect modification would have upon home life and those strata of society not directly affected by the underworld, I ask you to tell me just what there is about light wines and beer which will satisfy or cure the craving for hard liquor? We hear the cry, "We want beer!" justified by the contention that having beer, everyone will be happy and prosperous, and not want anything else. Well, when beer was cheap and plentiful and perfectly proper, we still had enormous sales of hard liquor, and reeling drunkards on our streets, and crime and poverty in our land. Mild doses of alcohol lead to the craving for stronger doses, and every body knows it. Legalized wines and beer would just give easier, broader opportunity for the handling of illegal hard liquor and everybody knows it. Why not be honest with ourselves? We need not be bulldozed by beer parades, and by the wet press, and by our own slipshod half-thinking. And incidentally, I have never yet heard or read any statement as to just how liquor could be legally purveyed, and the speak-easy eliminated, without a return of the saloon. Even the wets protest that the saloon must not come back. What is to take its place if liquor is to be openly sold? Each man is not going to take his little drink home with him and share it with his family. If there are not licensed saloons, there will be speak-easies.

IMPRESSIVE RELIGIOUS CEREMONY IN WHICH BAY ST. LOUIS PARTICIPATES

Mississippi Coast Sodalities Hold Second Annual Observance at Pass Christian—St. Joseph Academy and St. Stanislaus College Sodalities Represented.

A beautiful and impressive devotion was held at Pass Christian at St. Paul's Catholic church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Mississippi Coast Sodalities of the Children of Mary held their second annual May procession and crowning of the Blessed Virgin Mary. A large crowd from the entire Coast witnessed this event.

After entering the church the hymn, On This Day O Beautiful Mother, was sung by the congregation and the procession then formed which was led by the cross bearer and followed by the president of the Gulf Coast Union, Leon Baquet, St. Stanislaus, the sodality banner carried by Maurice Artigues, St. Stanislaus; M. St. Amant and H. Ware in white carrying the crown on a silver tray.

Miss Edith Reicker, Gulfport, queen, who had been chosen to crown the Blessed Virgin, was attended by her maids, Miss Catherine Scafield, Bay St. Louis; Miss Catherine Farrell, Pass Christian; Miss Doris Dubuisson, Long Beach, and Miss Sophie Wentzell, Biloxi. All were attractively attired in white. Following were the sodalities in the order arranged: St. Joseph's of Pass Christian, St. Joseph's of Bay St. Louis, Sacred Heart of Biloxi, St. Thomas of Long Beach, St. Francis de Sales of Gulfport, St. John's of Biloxi and St. Stanislaus of Bay St. Louis. The Sisters of Mercy of Biloxi, Gulfport and Pass Christian. Sisters of St. Joseph, Bay St. Louis, Brothers of the Sacred Heart, Bay St. Louis, the priests of the Coast and the laity completed the procession.

After leaving the church the procession slowly wended its way through the church yard, reciting the Rosary, to St. Joseph's Academy, where at the entrance a beautiful outdoor altar had been erected. Myriads of lighted candles illuminated the shrine which was beautifully decorated with white lilies and carnations. In the center was the statue of the Blessed Virgin. On either side of the shrine were baskets of flowers and ferns. The queen accompanied by the crown bearers approached the altar and placed the crown on the statue, after the singing of the hymn, Mother Dear O Pray For Me. The Act of Consecration was read by John Hickman, St. Stanislaus, Bay St. Louis. The Spiritual Bouquets of the sodalities were read by Rev. Wm. J. Leech, Pass Christian. The hymn, Come Holy Ghost, was sung.

Rev. D. O'Sullivan of Sacred Heart parish, Biloxi, delivered the sermon using as his topic, "Mary, Our Mother." The Litany of the Blessed Virgin was recited by Very Rev. Peter Keenan, Nativity parish, Biloxi. After the hymn, 'Tis the Month of Our Mother, the solemn benediction was celebrated by Rev. Father Leech, assisted by Rev. J. P. McGlade, St. John's parish, Biloxi, and Rev. Father Quinn, Bay St. Louis.

The exercises closed with the singing of Holy God We Praise Thy Name. The other Coast priests who were present were Rev. A. J. Gmelch, Hoandrop and Aescle of Bay St. Louis; Rev. R. J. Sorin, DeLisle; Rev. J. M. Hager, Long Beach.

R. R. Grade Crossing Accidents on L. & N. Show Marked Decrease

During the first two months of 1932, as compared with the same period of 1931, grade crossing accidents on the L. & N. railroad decreased 49 per cent, and there was a decrease of 58 per cent in casualties resulting therefrom. In other words there were 35 fewer accidents and 29 fewer casualties.

Declaring that grade crossing accidents would soon disappear if the motoring public would exercise as great a degree of care in preventing such accidents as do the railroads, the L. & N. Employees' Magazine for May attributes the L. & N.'s 1932 reduction to the proper lookout maintained by engineers on approaching crossings, and to the improvement of conditions at crossings.

Billboards Along Highways Soon To Be Ordered Down

Owners of billboards on Mississippi highways soon will receive notices from the State Highway Commission to remove all signs in conflict with provisions of a recent act of the Legislature, members of the commission report to the press.

It is likely the order will be issued at the next meeting of the commission, it was said.

The act, House Bill 632 which was one of the last to be signed by the governor, prohibits erection of billboards or signs within 200 feet of an intersection of a state highway and a railroad, or at turns and curves where erection of boards would in any way impair the view of motorists.

That it is the intention of the highway commission to wage a real "war" against billboards, is seen in a statement in which the commissioners declare they are "going to enforce the statute to the letter."

According to the author of the new act, it is so phrased as to vest ample authority in the commission to do away with hundreds of billboards and signs in each county in the state.

Simultaneously with their campaign against billboards, the commission will conduct a crusade against advertising signs tacked on trees and posts, which in their opinion, "clutter up the highways."

THE LINDBERGH TRAGEDY

By Chicagoan

Last week residents of Chicago and Bay St. Louis and of all other cities and towns; dwellers on farms and travelers on ships at sea held their breaths as news of the Lindbergh tragedy and its subsequent developments came to them by radio and by wire.

I am not trying to add to what has been said of the distressing affair; nor am I making point of the fact that the entire world received the shock almost simultaneously. But I do call attention to the great kinship of human hearts displayed.

There is hope for a nation; there is hope for a world, my friends, while the fate of one tiny babe can draw us so close together. That strengthens our faith in the certainty that there will be devised some means of rescuing from cruel fates the millions of other children who wait for food in a land overflowing with milk and honey.

Embarrassing

It is related that while a couple of schoolmarm were traveling in Canada, they stopped at a hotel one evening and the fussy one of the pair left her room to locate the means of escape in case of fire during the night.

In the corridor she pushed open a door and found herself in an occupied bathroom. To the man in the tub she exclaimed, "Oh, I beg your pardon. I'm looking for the fire escape."

She continued her search, when presently she heard someone coming along behind her. On turning she saw the bather, clad in nothing but a towel. "Where's the fire?" he asked excitedly.

At The Change

A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.

"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength. My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night. Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."—Mrs. Betty Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

ETHICS OF BANKING

By MELVIN A. TRAYLOR
President
First National Bank, Chicago

Melvin A. Traylor

We must not take unfair advantage of our competitors. It is entirely proper for us by legitimate means to obtain all the business that we can, but in doing so we ought to do nothing that will injure our competitors and that will destroy the confidence which the banks must repose in each other and which the community at large must repose in the banks as a whole if we are going to thrive, and remember always we cannot thrive separately. We shall either all thrive together or all suffer disaster.

Sentiment in Banking

No sentiment in banking? Will you recall just one day's activity at your desk—what were the problems you considered? Did they apply solely to the cold-blooded conduct of the affairs of your bank, weighing, measuring, analyzing, valuing securities, extending credit, driving the best bargains possible, having in mind only the material return from your day's labor? Certainly such is not the case. I recall many days—happy days, too—in my experience in a very small country bank, in which I am sure not one-tenth of my time was given to the real consideration of the financial returns to my institution.

Open Markets

I believe in an open market for the actual purchase and sale both of commodities and securities. But so long as the actual rate for credit in this country swings up and down according to the demand for funds for speculative purposes, little influenced by central or other banking policy, then something is wrong somewhere. Moreover, if business is influenced—as is almost universally charged—by the state of public mind; and if the state of public mind is influenced, as in recent years it most certainly has been, to run the scale from extreme optimism to extreme pessimism according to the characters on a ticker tape, then something is wrong with the public mind, or the conduct of the forces back of the tape. Those responsible must provide the answer.

Brother of Bay Saint Louis Summer Resident Dies at New Orleans

Arnold J. Holzer, 49, of 24 Fontainebleau Drive, vice president of the Holzer Sheet Metal Works and the Orleans Steel Products Company, 317 Burgundy street, died shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning at his residence. He had been in failing health for several months. Two brothers of the deceased were officers of the company, Rudolph J. Holzer being president, and John E. V. Holzer secretary-treasurer.

Beside his brothers, Mr. Holzer is survived by his widow, three daughters and two sisters.

Brothers of the deceased, J. E. V. Holzer, owns property and is a summer resident in Carroll avenue, and Rudolph J. Holzer, owns a summer home on the beach front, near Wave-line. Both are well and prominently known locally and the news of the death of their brother is received with sorrow and sympathy expressed for both as well as the respective families of the deceased and surviving brothers.

REDUCED 30 POUNDS NEVER FELT BETTER

SAFE WAY TO LOSE FAT

Take the case of Miss Madelone Crowley, for instance, who lives in Little Rock, Ark. Just read her letter:

"I have used Kruschen Salts for one year—when I started I weighed 140 pounds—now I weigh 110 pounds and never felt better in my life."

That's the big reason a host of men and women take Kruschen to lose weight—as the fat goes you gain in health—skin clears—eyes grow bright—activity replaces indolence. Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar of Kruschen that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks—get it at any drugstore in the world—but for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts.

GOV. ROOSEVELT GIVES WARNING IN ATLANTA ADDRESS

Says Social Revolt Unless Readjustments Are Made In System.

Warning that social revolt threatens unless "something" is done to equalize distribution of national income was flung forth at Atlanta Sunday night by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York in a commencement address at Oglethorpe University.

The candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination urged "social planning" to conserve production and natural resources and to influence the number of men and women entering the professions. There is need, he said, for general insurance of the necessities of life. Toward redistribution of wealth, Governor Roosevelt advanced no definite plan but recommended "bold persistent experimentation, warning that the 'millions in want will not stand by silently forever while the things to satisfy their needs are within easy reach.'"

He thrust at the leadership of those "having special interests in our economic order" and declared, "We cannot allow our economic life to be controlled by that small group of men whose chief outlook upon the social welfare is tinged by the fact they can make huge profits from the lending of money and the marketing of securities—an outlook which deserves the adjective 'selfish' and 'opportunistic.'"

The New York executive charged the Coolidge and Hoover administrations with part of the responsibility for the depression and struck at "Wall Street" as represented by investment bankers.

"SHOPWORN" AT A. & G. THEATRE THIS SUNDAY & MONDAY

Starring Barbara Stanwyck With Regis Toomey and ZaSu Pitts in the Cast

Barbara Stanwyck has just completed for Columbia what will probably be hailed as the greatest dramatic triumph in her extraordinary career if the opinion of hard-boiled, emotionless picture executives and film buyers is to be taken as any criterion.

In "Shopworn" Miss Stanwyck gives an emotional, stirring portrayal that will delight the hearts of theatergoers.

Nick Grinde has directed with a deep inner feeling of the fine points of this gripping drama. Regis Toomey never played as sincerely as he has besides Miss Stanwyck. Lucien Littlefield and ZaSu Pitts head a strong supporting cast and lend immeasurable aid in the creation of this dramatic masterpiece.

Barbara Stanwyck's performance will ever be remembered for the human touches, charm and sincerity which go into every word she utters. A truly remarkable actress, this picture establishes her as such beyond a doubt.

His Reason

"Speaking of signs," writes W. P. "I remember once standing in front of a grocery store and noticing the sign, 'A Swindler,' on the window. Entering, I asked the proprietor if it wouldn't look better if, instead of 'A' he printed his full Christian name.

"No," he said "it would look worse. My first name is Adam."

The Printed WORD

The printed word reaches more people sooner than verbal or personal contacts. It has an approach that rivals that of the best salesman; it often gets in where real salesmen fear to tread. If your business seems to be slacking up try treating it the printed word way. You will be rewarded with results.

The Sea Coast Echo

"The Trouble Wasn't Over When Peace Came, Son, No Sir"

THE COUNTRY then went into a reconstruction period, which meant starting all over again. That is a painful period for both country and individual. That is what you must avoid, son, when you grow up. The best way to avoid it is to begin saving as soon as you can and keep on saving so that if anything should happen to your fortunes you would have money in the bank to help you. That is what independence really means when you can rely upon your self alone. To be a great man, you must be a good saver.

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

(For The Sea Coast Echo)

To some housekeepers croquettes are merely a possible use of left-overs and are likely to be served as a tasteless mass. To the housewife who likes her menus to have a personal touch the croquette offers opportunity. On the outside they are brown and crispy, but on the inside a creamy well blended sauce may bind together many things.

Egg Croquettes

1 cup white sauce made with 1 cup milk and 1/2 cup flour. Eggs and crumbs for dipping croquettes. 3 tablespoons butter, 6 hard cooked eggs chopped. 4 tablespoons minced parsley. Salt and pepper. Make the white sauce and combine with chopped eggs. Cool and add parsley. Shape, keeping the croquettes rather small. Dip in bread crumbs, beaten egg and again in crumbs. Fry in deep pan until well browned. Drain and serve hot with tomato sauce.

Crab Croquettes

1 can crab
6 medium potatoes ?
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4, teaspoon pepper
1 onion
1 green pepper
1 cup tomatoes
1 egg
Cracker crumbs. Mash potatoes, adding butter, salt and pepper. Chop onion and green pepper very fine and fry in 1 tablespoon butter until soft. Add tomatoes and simmer for ten minutes. Add hot mixture to potatoes and beat well. Add crab meat, onion and flaked. Let mixture cool and shape into finger length croquettes. Dip into crumbs, then egg and again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat until delicately browned. Serve hot with white sauce.

Macaroni Croquettes

Cooked macaroni, cheese sauce, flour, egg crumbs. To cooked macaroni add cheese sauce and season to taste. Pour into a pan and let set overnight. Cut into squares, dip into flour, then egg and roll in crumbs. Fry in deep fat. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

Cheese Sauce

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Pepper
1/2 cup grated cheese. Melt butter, add flour, making a smooth paste. Add salt and stir milk in gradually. When hot add the cheese, stirring until smooth.

Asparagus Croquettes

1 1/2 cup cooked asparagus
1 cup milk
Salt
3 tablespoons butter

BUSINESS BUILDING DESTROYED

Fire Monday Evening Consumed Frame Store Building Formerly Occupied By J. S. LeBlanc

Shortly after 7 o'clock Monday evening fire of unknown origin broke out in the one-story frame building, on Railroad avenue, formerly occupied by the LeBlanc Grocery Store and still used as a storehouse in conjunction with the store recently moved into a brick building adjoining.

Bay St. Louis fire department promptly answered the call and later the fire engine from Pass Christian was on the scene, both pumping great streams of water in a successful attempt to save buildings adjoining on both sides.

The LeBlanc Store, now owned by Albert David, of Covington, recent purchaser, carried $2500 on furniture and fixtures and $2500 on stock. Located in the new Levine building the damage was negligible. The building where the fire originated was for the best part destroyed, and was owned by the LeBlanc estate, carrying $1000 insurance while a similar amount was carried on the stock contained therein, which was lost.

The lot is owned by Philip Levine as well as the adjoining store buildings in which Henry Fayard barber, lost much of the contents of his shop and has moved back to his former location corner Union and Second streets, where he will remain until the new place is put back into shape where all damages will have been repaired and replaced. The other tenant, LeBlanc's cash store, was able to continue business the next morning as usual.

Due to the prompt attention of the local fire department the fire was controlled and with the assistance of the Pass Christian engine adjoining buildings were rescued from greater damage.

The building destroyed was to have been removed within a few days in order to make vacant the lot upon which it rested and to give space for further building which Mr. Levine plans to construct, in line with his present row of modern brick store buildings.

St. Joseph's Academy P-T. A. will hold its regular monthly meeting on Thursday of next week, June 2, at 2:30 o'clock. Members are urged to attend. The summer season's work will be discussed and planned.

CARD OF THANKS

Bowed deep in the double sorrow that visited our hearts and homes, blinded by the tears we would seek to restrain, we are not unmindful of the assistance and the generous ministrations that has come to us in that hour when the shadows seem to follow heaviest.

We wish to thank one and all who in any way came to our assistance and were with us during the period following the terrible tragedy, for wide-spread sympathy and for the warmth of that genuine spirit that has been with us and which has proven of such consolation.

It is a satisfaction to know that even though we are bereaved in double instance, we still have with us the consolation of the words of the Lord and the facts that friends and acquaintances have been with us in their tender and sweet ministrations.

Gratefully,
MRS. HORACE WHITFIELD,
MR. AND MRS. E. VAN WHITFIELD.

OF SOCIAL INTEREST

(By Our Society Editor)

MRS. THORNHILL BROOME'S LUNCHEON-BRIDGE.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Thornhill Broome of Pass Christian entertained with an unusually lovely Bridge Tea at The Oriole in Bay St. Louis.

The guests motored over from the Pass and spent the afternoon absorbed with the demands of Contract Bridge. Later in the afternoon other guests arrived and tea was served in the attractive dining room which, as usual, was most artistically decorated. This time Southern Smilax formed the background for the bridge bouquets of blue Chinese forget-me-nots and pink double larkspur, a color scheme which was carried out in the delicious refreshments of candies, sandwiches and cake. Mrs. Broome is always such a charming hostess that an invitation to her parties brings joyful anticipation to her expected guests.

COMPLIMENTING MISS DELLIE MCCONNELL.

Because Miss Dellie McConnell is leaving soon for California to spend the summer, Mrs. Orie Pollard of The Oriole, entertained for her Tuesday afternoon, thus giving Miss Dellie's friends an opportunity for last little visit with her and a chance to tell her goodbye and wish her a pleasant trip. As always, The Oriole was so cleverly decorated with gay and dainty flowers and greenery that it was like an idealized garden for the party. Miss Dellie and her guests enjoyed a delightful visit and then finished their chat over the tea-cups when the hostess, Mrs. Pollard assisted by Miss Elsa Mauffray, served dainty refreshments. During the afternoon Mrs. Pollard, at Miss Dellie's request, sang two solos with her inimitable charm.

FAIR VISITOR GIVES DELIGHTFUL TEA.

Miss Katherine Steer, of Tampa, Florida, was hostess Wednesday afternoon to a group of friends including Miss Bess Barnhart, of Ocean Springs, Miss Grace Kleinhart, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Miss Margaret Shupe, of Selma, Alabama. Miss Steer's entertained with a very delightful tea in The Oriole's lovely tea room.

MISS LAURIN GEX HOSTESS TO TEA PARTY.

A delightful party of last week was one given by Miss Laurin Gex to some of her Gulf Park College friends. Four tables of bridge were arranged for this group of attractive and dainty-gowned girls in the very fitting setting of The Oriole Tea room which added to the colorful scene with its decoration of bright spring flowers and a background of rich green vines. Late in the afternoon a delectable lunch was served.

SCHUBERT MUSIC CLUB'S ANNUAL DINNER.

The Schubert Music Club of Bay St. Louis, entertained with their annual dinner Wednesday evening at The Oriole. Covers were laid for the twelve members at a most festive long table set diagonally across the lovely and artistic dining room. Several solos were sung by Mrs. James Sylvester. A piano duet by Miss Marie Louise Renaud and Mrs. Carl Smith, also a reading by Mrs. George R. Rea, added to the pleasing entertainment. The club enjoyed and appreciated one of Mrs. Pollard's far-famed chicken dinners.

At the end of this meeting the club adjourned for the summer. Among those present were Mesdames, W. W. Stockstill, George R. Rea, James Sylvester, H. C. Glover, E. C. Carre'e, Carl Smith, and Misses Margaret and Jennie Green, Alvie Louise Nathan and Marie Louise Renaud.

Nothing to add to SUDS.

The matter was taken up personally with Commissioner Thames at a coastal central point which was designated as Gulfport.

A Break for Johnny.

Father—Well, my son, you're getting some good marks this term.

Son—Yes, dad. Since you haven't had time to help me with my home work I get along fine.

A Fellow Citizen

"And why should I help you?" demanded the passerby on Tremont street.

"Sir," replied the tramp, "I can offer no coherent reason. Your motive must be purely altruistic."

That got him a dime.

"Do you think I look all right in my new gown?" she asked.

"Hm! Yes," replied her husband "but I would suggest that if possible you get in a little further."

Where's The Stenog?

Ticket Clerk—Sorry, sir, I have nothing left but two single tickets on different sides of the orchestra.

Man—Those will do splendidly. It's my wife I'm bringing.

Sublime Credulity

"Brown's wife thinks the world of her husband."

"Does she?"

"Yes; she even believes that the patriot taught him to swear."—Whitby Chronicle.

Making Ends Meet

Mrs. A.—How can Mrs. Bomley afford to keep three servants?

Mrs. B.—Oh, she plays bridge with them every Saturday evening and wins back their wages.—Boston Transcript.

Findin's Keepin's

Boss (pointing to cigaret stub on floor)—"Smith, is this yours?"

Smith—"Not at all, sir—you saw it first."—Montreal Star.
